A Year Between The Covers

18 the magnitude and direction of the resultant velocity.

16 6. An airplane is to maintain a velocity of 475 km/hr in a direction 45.0° north of east. If the wind velocity is 50.0 km/hr 45.0° south of east, what should be the magnitude and direction of the velocity of the airplane to offset the effect of the wind?

GROUP B
Note: Problems 7 through 9 should be solved (a) graphically and (b) trigonometrically.

7. Determine the magnitude and direction of the resultant velocity of

75.0 m/s, 25.0° east of north, and 100.0 m/s, 25.0° east of south.

8. A boat is to cross a river on a course directed 20.0° upstream to a dock 815 m distance in 10.0 min. If the river flows at a speed of 3.0 km/hr, at what angle upstream must the boat be headed and what must be its speed in km/hr relative to the moving water?

9. An airplane must fly at a ground speed of 425 km/hr in a direction of 10.0° east of south to be on course and on schedule. If the wind velocity is 25.0 km/hr 40.0° east of north, in what direction and at what speed relative to the air must the pilot fly?

ACCELERATION

3.5 The Nature of Acceleration The gas pedal of a car is sometimes called the accelerator. When you drive a car along a level highway and increase the pressure on the accelerator, the speed of the car increases. The needle of the car's speedometer shows that for a certain amount of time the car's speed increases. We say that the car is accelerating. When you apply the brakes of the car that you are driving, the speed of the car decreases, and we say that the car is decelerating.

As the time rate of change of velocity, acceleration is defined as the rate of change of velocity. If a car goes from 0.0 km/hr to 60 km/hr in 10 seconds, the first car has an acceleration of 6.0 (km/hr)/s. The second car has an acceleration of 12.0 (km/hr)/s. In the first case, the acceleration can be thought of as the rate of change of velocity. For the second case, the acceleration is twice as great. The equations for acceleration are:

VELOCITY AND ACCELERATION
Average acceleration is found by the relationship

$$a_{av} = \frac{v_f - v_i}{t_f - t_i}$$

where  $a_{av}$  is the average acceleration,  $v_i$  is the initial velocity at time  $t_i$ , and  $v_f$  is the final velocity at time  $t_f$ . This relationship may also be stated

$$a_{av} = \frac{\Delta v}{\Delta t}$$

where  $\Delta v$  is the change in velocity for time interval  $\Delta t$ . Figures 3-9 and 3-10 are velocity-time graphs for accelerated motion. In Figure 3-9 the velocity curve is a straight line. Hence the acceleration is a constant. This is an illustration of uniformly accelerated motion. The motion illustrated in Figure 3-10 is an example of non-uniformly accelerated motion. As we mentioned in the case of finding instantaneous speed or instantaneous velocity, finding the average acceleration between two points on the curve only approximates the instantaneous acceleration. Instantaneous acceleration is equal to the slope of the line that is tangent to the curve at the given point.

Notice that the slope of the velocity does not increase during all time intervals. For the interval between points A and B,  $\Delta t$  is 3.0 s and  $\Delta v$  is -2.0 m/s. Consequently

$$a_{av} = \frac{-2.0 \text{ m/s}}{3.0 \text{ s}} = -0.67 \text{ m/s}^2$$

This reduction in speed is called deceleration, or negative acceleration. The dimensions of acceleration should be carefully examined. Acceleration is the rate of change of the rate of displacement, or  $(\Delta v / \Delta t) / \Delta t$ . If  $\Delta d$  is in meters and  $\Delta t$  is in seconds, acceleration is given in m/s<sup>2</sup>.

3.6 Solving Acceleration Problems Galileo Galilei (1564-1642) was the first to study the motion of a falling body. He found that the distance fallen was proportional to the square of the time of fall.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming is a special event for which we the students — the spirit and the heart of S.C.I.&T.S. — work and strive for to make it a momentous occasion. It always is! Homecoming '87 was streamlined with charisma and most importantly with good spirited fun. Fans, faculty and friends (don't forget the alumni) all enjoyed making and observing the floats in which many hours of greatly appreciated labour was put forth.

by: Mike McQueen

"Oh, he's gorgeous!" The preceding is an interpretation of young Danielle's thoughts concerning the gentleman in front of her.

Ghosts, Ghouls and Balloons

A reflection of our times was certainly evident at the 1987 Halloween Dance. Actually, the students demonstrated much more innovation than merely donning the garb of ghosts and ghouls. A myriad of cleverly-costumed onlookers gazed, with a certain degree of awe, at a trio of safety precautions young men clad in bathing caps and garbage bags (kinky orange colour), clearly resembling the makes of Trojan. In future reference, will Stacy Robertson, Shane Kameka and Steve Wilson concede to being the winners of the costume contest in that outfit?

Complete with soothers and diapers, Baby Huey, Duey and Luey were accompanied by Mom, Brad Capes, who was expecting a "Newy". Meanwhile, Dave White, our resident Psycho Chicken from Hell (whatever that is) could be found clucking at Dave Lewis, a female body builder, although that is highly questionable. As well, Kanella Frangis, Lisa Smith, Shelly Nickles, Tammy Page, Becky Dierick and Karen Pole comprised the entire troop from Alice in Wonderland.

Ranging from those gentlemen dressed in drag to the leather-laden Herk who was dressed as . . . as a Herk, I guess you would say, all sorts of characters were present. Whether they were ad libbing a few lyrics to Billy Idol's hit, Mony Mony or slow stepping it with a sweetheart to Jennifer Warnes' and Bill Medley's Time of My Life, all enjoyed a great evening.

Incidentally, would you buy a used car from Tim Clark, that shady looking fellow in the mafia apparel?

Wilbur Hams It Up

CLUNK, CLUNK, CLUNK!

As Jason Bain shuffled his size 12 Reeboks on stage, our slightly bedeviled director, Mrs. Bisnette, hollered, "Don't shuffle those feet!"

"Sorry," came his reply.

"And don't say sorry."

"Oh, sorry."

Take two. Occurrences such as this (including times when everyone on stage was overcome by a severe case of the giggles) were part of the many rehearsals that brought the Drama Club's production of Charlotte's Web to life. After two months of practising, we were ready for the dress rehearsal . . . almost!

The entire circuit board was gone so we had no stage lights. Nevertheless, the show must go on. And it did. The lighting crew, David Byeley, Rob Simmons, Dean Astolfi, Sean Croxford, and Terry McMillan expertly contended with the difficulties. Meanwhile, at the back of the auditorium, there stood Mrs. Bisnette on the verge of "cardiac arrest", to put it in her own words. Her pangs of panic may have started when it was discovered that everyone was crowded around Wilbur's trough because they were referring to the script inside it or when Mr. Zuckerman slid the barn door across the stage but it became entangled in the curtains and the crew members were still struggling to pull it off stage at least ten lines later. It was one of those things that was awkward at the time but it struck everyone as funny when we saw it on video tape the next day.

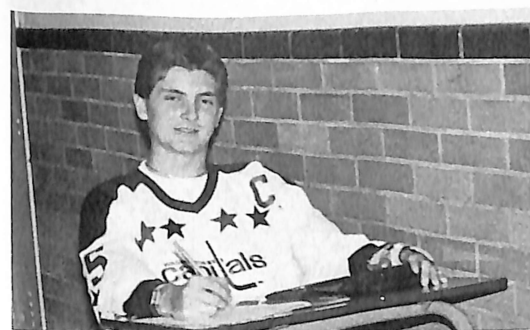

Three days later, it was showtime. Hundreds of elementary school children were delighted with the performance, especially when Wilbur the lovable pig (Chrissy Postil) escaped from the pen and charged through the aisles of the auditorium with Edith Zuckerman (Julie Wilson) and Lurvy (Julie Dobson) in hot pursuit. The children also enjoyed the great characterization of Kelly Langille, in the role of Charlotte the compassionate spider, the boisterous Avery Arable played by Shawn Gladwish, Jason Bain as Templeton, the sometimes charming rat and Stephanie Bonner as the repeat-repeat-repeating Goose. The young spectators laughed at Homer Zuckerman (Patrick Coggins) when Lurvy threw a bucket full of clear, plastic strips meant to resemble water on top of him. Homer replied with, "I didn't ask for a showerbath, Lurvy!"

The final show truly was the pièce de résistance, aside from the fact that the play was a polished performance. When Homer said, "I didn't ask for a showerbath!" he really didn't ask for it. Julie threw a bucket of real water all over poor Patrick! No one was aware of this scheming plan. This moment was the definition of total hysteria. Everyone backstage was overcome by uproarious laughter. Most of the time, student director Andria Astolfi was telling us to remain quiet but at this incident, she was leading the raucous merriment. On stage, Mike McQueen was so convulsed with laughter that he couldn't say his lines. At this point, the gleeful audience broke into jubilant applause.

What a great way to end a show! Mrs. Bisnette's only concern in this plan was that someone might curse on stage once doused with water. No one did.

LOOK! It's Robin Leach or is he Mr. Rogers or possibly Ronald Reagan. Actually, Chad Fairbairn is all of these people plus many more. He kept us amused during the morning announcements on several occasions with his celebrity impersonations promoting homeroom challenges.

This note, inspired by the electronic sign in the cafeteria, was left on the bulletin board across from the office. It worked. Two days later, the sign was changed — even the joke (What sits at the bottom of the ocean and shakes? A nervous wreck!) The following week, "the 2nd period spare club" left a thank you note.

Are you familiar with this sports scene? Picture the following: the home team is within two baskets of winning, there are twenty seconds left on the clock, it's a time out, there are ruddy-faced coaches on the sidelines with varicose veins popping out on their necks while they do a lot of pointing and conferring with the ref, the stands are filled with hundreds of screaming, competitive fans, and there is a player standing at the free throw line with a pensive look on her face. No, this is not a scene from a dramatic movie. That was real life in our own gym when our senior girls' basketball team met St. Pat's during the LSSAA final. Although they lost a very close game, they advanced to WOSSA where they defeated Northern 51-39.

What a glorious event! WOSSA champs! You'd think that the team would linger in the moment to savour the taste of victory as they walk up to the presenter to receive their plaques . . . but no! These young ladies were in the process of getting undressed as they stood in line, since they had to shower, fix their hair, put on make-up and get into formal dress in order to be on time for the Commencement Ceremony within the next half hour. Once they had awards in hand, the bare-footed Bombers bolted for the showers.

With their talent and high calibre of play, the Blue concluded this thrilling season by capturing their first ever OFSAA AA championship.

Cheryl Condie executes great defence as she knocks the ball away from a potential scorer during the WOSSA tournament.

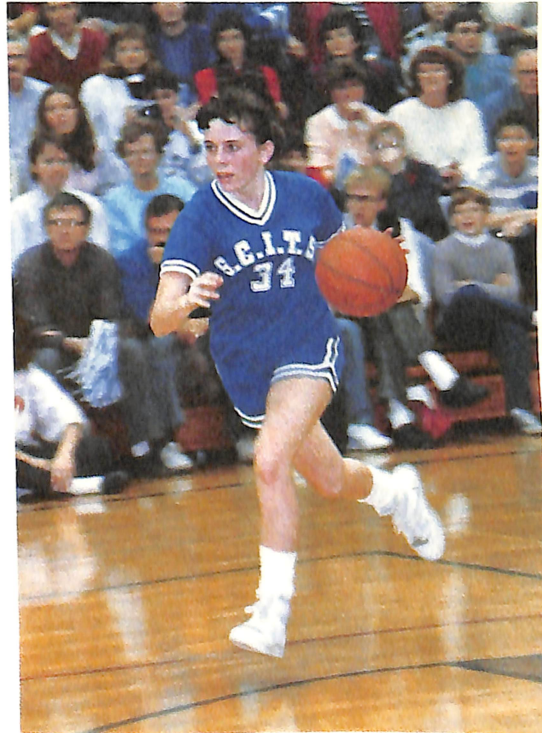

With a spirited, enthusiastic (and especially loud) crowd of fans supporting them, Sarah Robinson (above) eludes the St. Pat's attacker trailing behind her. Maureen "Moe" Robertson (below) later sprints down the court to add two more points to the Bombers' score.

Sabrina Fitzsimmons (32) and Carey Gordon (14) provide coverage under the net.

Kathy Arcuri nets another two points.

Brad Riley makes the final stop on a St. Pat's ball carrier.

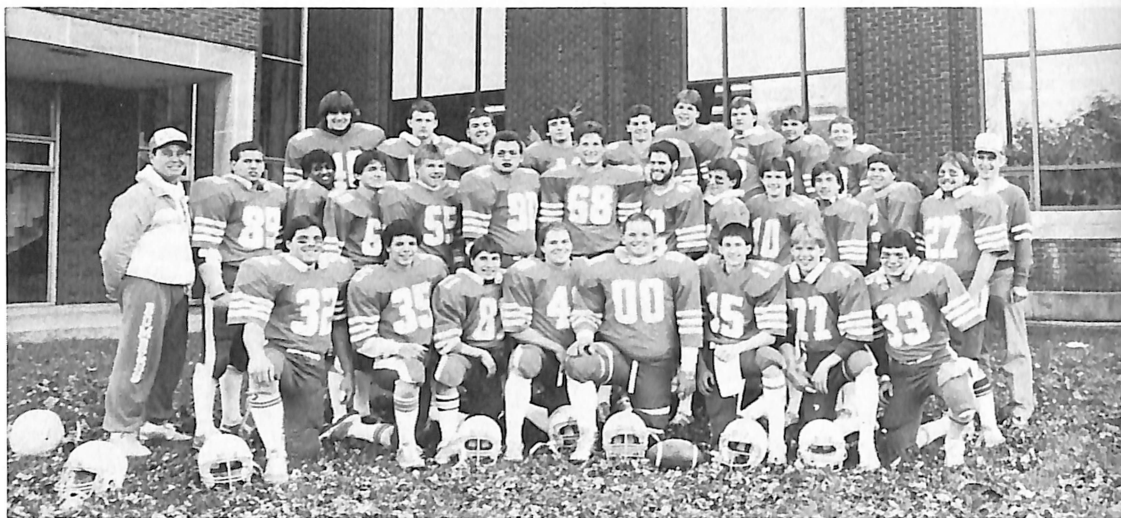

A muddy field nor a diving St. Clair player stops running-back Dave Martin.

Tony Demarco (89) looms over the already-troubled Lancer quarterback while Phil Regnier (33) gets another sack.

Phil Varghese (21) prepares to put a stop on a Lancer running-back as Randy Joyce (80) slows him down.

Our Baby Blue

Mike Anderson drags down a St. Pat's ball carrier from behind.

Offensive linemen Chris Robbins (77), Randy Fennell (66), and Jim Maginn (68) clear the way for Bill Regnier (17) to gain extra yardage.

A look of determination strikes running-back Chris Pritchard as he escapes the grasp of that St. Clair defender with the near painful expression.

To quote the immortal words of assistant coach Tom Davey, spoken to defensive players, "Get out there and hit somebody!", it was an action packed season. Although it had been several years since the juniors had won a game against Petrolia, they defeated them by a 24-8 score. The next week, Northern fell to the wrath of the Bombers, SCITS winning 20-14. They trounced St. Clair 26-8 but lost the final game of the regular season to St. Pat's. With a first place standing in the regular season, they defeated St. Pat's in the semi-final game to clinch our place in the championship game. Throughout the season the boys put forth a great effort, especially in the final game where they narrowly missed the championship, losing 11-8 to Northern.

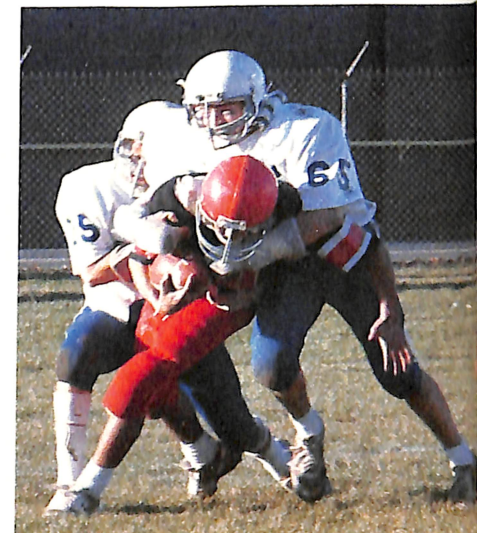

Three St. Pat's defenders finally down quarterback Ken Gordon while attempting his second two-point conversion of the game.

Coach Hall assists Pat Kilby to the sideline.

With the helmet downward and an arm kept upward Jason Boulton breaks through the St. Clair line.

Jason Howlett (65), assisted by Mark Boyce (25), sacks the Northern quarterback on his own six yard line.

Bombers in Action

Brent Selman was a chip off the old block (or was the ball a chip off Brent?) with Todd Dowdell following in his footsteps during the Bombers' LSSAA soccer championship.

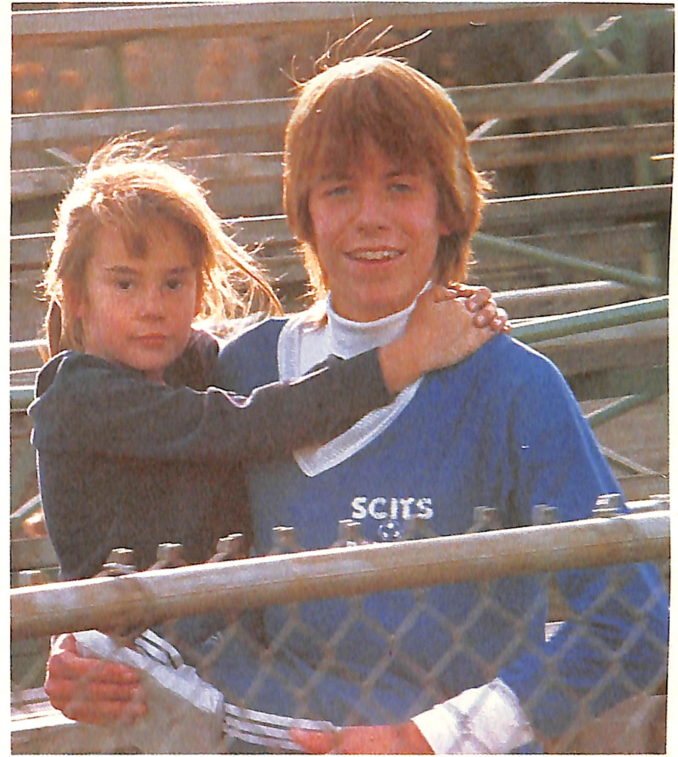

Bomber basher Ryan Hughes jolts a St. Clair player as both go up in the air to head the ball.

A jubilant Brad Pyne jumps into the arms of Goalie Chris Clark moments after the victory.

Todd Dowdell escorts a young personal fan after the LSSAA championship.

For the second year in a row, the junior boys' soccer team became LSSAA champions. In the final 1-0 game, the lone goal was scored by Chris Vrooman to lead them to victory over the St. Clair Colts. Being actively involved is quite common among SCITS students as most of the boys had to rush off to play in a league hockey game before they had a chance to do much celebrating. The team later went on to become winners of the WOSSA tournament by leading 7 goals to 2 over Dorchester.

LIFE WITH OUR TEACHERS

The entire bleachers were packed with students cheering for "Mel Muttly and the Maggots", our special musical guests, on the first annual Spirit Day.

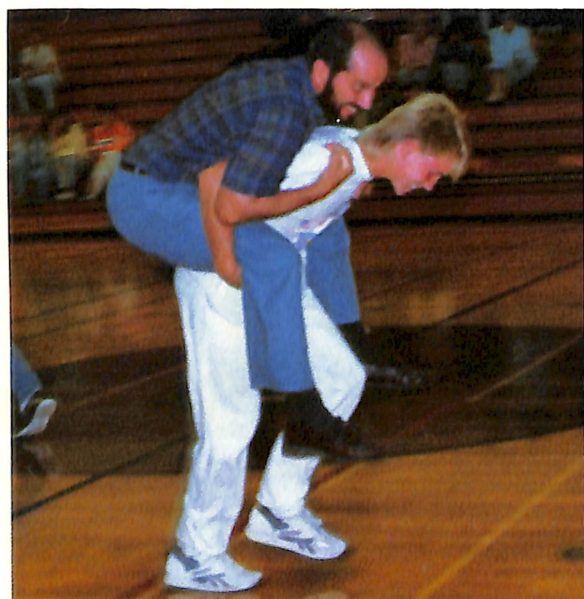

Mel (sometimes known as Mr. Alexander) sang Twist and Shout while his fellow Maggots (A.K.A. Mr. McKelvie, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Zigmond, Mr. Hummel and Mr. Young) provided the harmonizing.

Jim Bell referees a fashion contest between Mr. Archer's homeroom and Mr. Alexander's.

Spirit Day was a kick around our school! Especially to Dawn-Marie Downie, Tara Sutton, Mr. McNamara (Mac), Bev Brattengeier and Mrs. Illman.

Mr. Gusba (What a jockey!) and Jef Landon demonstrate Ontario horse racing at its best.

David Ronchin and Mrs. Kennedy attempt to pass a Lifesaver to each other with a toothpick.

Mr. McKelvie proved to be the studliest Maggot, a title he is proud to own up to.

NOT BAD, EH?

Mac assists Julie McKinnon with Math homework while Supervising homeroom challenges.

Mr. Bill Scott totes Derek Manchester down the gym during the grade 9 Homeroom challenges within the first few weeks of school. What a way to become better acquainted with your Math teacher.

Mrs. Bisnette can't resist sneaking in behind Kelly Langille, Jason Bain, Stephanie Bonner, Cheryl Windover and Patrick Coggins as they pose in the greenroom.

Mr. Hummel conducts the band to get them in tune just before the Commencement ceremony was to begin.

"Oh! That spoon is cold!" During the Grade 9 Homeroom challenges, all sorts of slightly crazy games were enjoyed. Jenny Milliken and Mrs. Illman participate in a game in which the winner was the first team to have all its members create a human chain, linked by string down their clothing with a spoon attached to the end.

As demonstrated by Mr. Brown and Mr. Martin.

You'll soon be seeing Slam Dancin' Sandrin on Much Music.

The versatile Conan the Librarian can also act.

Has Mrs. Spano been a good little girl? Oh, look what elf Karen Langille and elf Jenny Parkinson have for you! A light switch so you don't short out our electrical system! Golly, thanks Santa Rome! Trust me, Virginia, there IS a Santa Claus.

These studly awesome Aussies (a.k.a. Super Steve Preston, Macho Mark Ellis, Slick Shawn Gladwish, and Jumpin John Cruickshank) won third place in the Christmas Assembly for their rendition of Australian Philosophers. Nice touch with the Foster's Lager and Koala bears.

Brad Capes makes a point of publicly reminding his Dad that his homeroom beat the former winner, Mr. Capes' homeroom, in the Christmas door decorating contest.

A Blast From the Past . . .

With hairstyles reminiscent of the Lenny and Squiggy look and fashion styles that would conform to the likes of Fonzie or Jenny Piccalo, a couple hundred students arrived dressed to the theme for the first dance of the new year. At the SCITS 50's-60's Dance, the essence of another era was captured. Despite the no-shoes-on-the-gym-floor dance rule, there was no shortage of saddle shoes for show, sometimes complete with poodle skirts as donned by Kara Warnez and Terrie Gladwish. The cumulative total of hair grease alone (especially Erin White above and Rene Work at far right) had to be a significant factor indicating the 50's. This spirited young crowd could be seen bopping to the tunes of the times or, for a few, necking (funny how that has nothing to do with the neck) certainly enhances a slow dance. Pictured at right are . . . WHAT?! . . . Sarah Burchmore and Steve Wilson showing that some things have a time-enduring appeal. Thirty years from now, when our kids are looking for something like track pants or acid washed jeans to wear to a dance about the "old days", it's reassuring to know that some things won't change.

LUNCH TABLE

The table sits there empty
Waiting for us to arrive
To hear all our gossiping secrets
We seem to keep it alive
It laughs at all our jokes, and
Takes our spills with pride
Because it knows in a few short years
There will be new kids at its side
It's always good to know there's a place
To go to when you're down
And talk it over with all your friends
They make a smile from a frown
When we're leaving we'll say good-bye
To this table where we've grown
And there in its wood embedded deep
Are all our high school memories we've known

IN MEMORIAM

Never Far

He is gone but never lost
 Away, but never far.
 He remembers us as we in turn remember him.
 He forever wonders what it is like to grow old.
 We ease his wonder as we keep his laughter within our hearts.
 His body is still but we often feel his touch.
 He walks among us but is never seen.
 He is gone but never lost.
 Away but never far . . .

Darren Scott Willis
 1971-1987

As the result of a traffic accident, Darren Scott Willis, friend, schoolmate, and all around nice guy was tragically and unexpectedly killed.

Darren was a fellow student at SCITS and a valued member of the swim team. He will be sadly missed by all who knew him and enjoyed the fine traits which he portrayed as only he could. It's very hard to accept such a tragic death of a friend so young with so much life to live and enjoy.

Lisa Smith and Karen Pole — Is this what you do on your spare?!

BRENDA CLYSDALE
Brenda never "udders" a word unless it's about cows or Ralph, but this farm girl has more heart than cupid.

CAROLYN COOPER
A quiet girl, guaranteed success in her future. P.S. Yes she can talk!!!!

JILL DAWSON
If you want to know the latest on someone, just ask Jill she always has scoop!

ROSHINI DATH
Roshini is difficult to please, but we like her anyway. Hope that T.O. is all that you want it to be!!

VARUNA DATH
Varuna wants to become an Engineer. (His train set has given him years of experience in this field!!!!)

HEATHER DIDIER
Heather makes your hamburger a beautiful thing.

BECKY DIERICK
Get Beck behind the wheel of her beat up old Mustang and she's "Born to be Wiilld"! Grab a hair cut and get a job!!

TERRY DUFFIELD
He's the reason the sheep are nervous!!!

ROY EDDLESTON
If you're looking for Roy, call Maureen's house.

MICHELLE EVOY
Spinney? Michelle? No Way!

TARA FABBRI
Tara can be found in Port Huron — ALL THE TIME!

CHAD FAIRBAIRN
Chad will always be remembered as the voice of . . . ? Take your pick, he does so many!

MARIA FEDERICO
Maria is the only blonde Italian we know.

PHIL FOLKERSON
This year's recruit from Petrolia is definitely an asset to the male population of SCITS.

JANICE GILLILAND
Have 12 more haystacks Janice!!! How's Bob? When is the wedding?

TRICIA GLASSCO
The Dish may be small but she's full of energy and can always be found leading a group of guys; beer for beer. Also known as tequila Trish!

STEVE GRANT
Mr. Burrowes didn't think you were funny, and neither did we! Jeff is holding your Gimme A Break card hostage!!!!!!

JULIE HOLMES
Julie's got a bright future as an artistically inclined scientific medical laboratory technologist.

JASON HOOKEY
Jason's the strong silent type — just ask him!

TERRY HOPWOOD
Girls — whatever you do, stay out of the back seat of Terry's car! (If you can call that . . . a car!?!?) Mr. S.C.I.T.S.? Ha, ha, ha, . . . !

BART JONES
Bart's subtle but rude comments would make any girl's heart flutter!

MICHELLE JONES
Michelle is notorious for screaming dumb knock-knock jokes (that nobody wants to hear) down the hall. YES, Michelle, you're supposed to stop at red lights!

SCOTT JUBENVILLE
Scott is the head of the Ollie North fan club. P.S. How come you never tried out for the Sr. Boys' B-Ball team?

SHANE KAMEKA
He's a wrestler — what can ya say but nice uniform Shane! Should you ever need him, Mek can be found eating bananas in the library.

LIZ KINGSTON
Liz spends most of her time with her beloved shadow, a certain Lambton College man.

KELLY LANGILLE
Kelly's home away from home is McDonalds, and her favorite saying is "Would you like fries with that?"

RICHARD LARGE
We know you are a personal friend of the Dark Brothers, but what we really want to know is . . . Is it Richard, Rich, Rick, or . . . Dick?

GILA LASHLEY
Gila's a star, fashion plate, singer, dancer and actress. What more could we ask for in a successful woman?

DEREK LELIEVRE
Mr. "I got here over an hour ago" is still here and probably always will be.

DAVE LEWIS
The ultimate rugby player, Lewis. Dave specializes in post-game comradery with a guy named Bud!

SETH LIPPIATT
Lipper can always be found wearing an anti-Spuds Mackenzie shirt and holding two Millers. Oh well, see ya same time, same place next year, Seth.

COLLEEN MacDONALD
"Snap Happy" is a high class photographer who's been known to frame people!!! (Love those shoes!!!)

NICCI MACKENZIE
Nicci can usually be found in the cafeteria when she's not supposed to be there. "What's cookin' Nicci? Guinea Pigs?!"

MIKE MARCHUK
Mike has been one of Mr. Scott's right hand men in the S.C.I.T.S. Revue.

CHRIS MARWOOD
This is a rare photo of Chris — he's smiling! Chris's hobbies include the S.C.I.T.S. band and Theresa.

STEVE MARWOOD
Steve's trying to convince us that he won't be back next year, but we know better! What else would he do?

ALLISON MCCARTHY
"How did you know that they were taking Grad pictures?"

JULIE MCKINNON
Jubie, my little schugum. Pilons, cyroalas and crowds forever.

LISA MITCHELL
Lisa has some sort of vandelletta against eggs. Is Rosalita still locked in your basement? Yeah!!!

ROB MUNRO
Rob is known for his stimulating lunch conversations and his "special" magazines.

PAULA NAVE
Paula is a quiet girl but she is active in most aspects of S.C.I.T.S. life.

HEIDI NEGRI
Ron Reagan, Robin Leach, Mr. Deol, Curly or just plain old Chad. Who does Heidi really prefer.

SHELLEY NICKELS
Shelley seems to have all the WRONG guys chasing her. They are all wanting to know if she has an all over tan.

BOB OLIVER
He has been known to wear pearls around his neck.

LANDON PAYNE
Landon will be breaking out of the big house in September and he'll be looking for a bit of liberty. Always remember Landon . . . CHEATERS NEVER PROSPER!!!

THERESA PHILLIPS
Theresa is a real Bomber Band enthusiast, and we're well acquainted with her outstanding, exhilarating xylophone performances.

JENNIFER PLUMRIDGE
All the best to your new future. Here comes the bride!

KAREN POLE
Karen likes to spend her Friday nights taking off to London with unknown people in a beat up old Mustang. What the #$$%!

CATHY POWELL
Cathy's going to University to learn about drugs. And we thought she was such a nice girl...

RANDY PREECE
He almost escaped from SCITS, but returned so he could keep playing that stupid "finger" game!

IAN RAND
Ian has been blowing out matches on the stage.

JEFF ROBBINS
Jeff is proud of milking his cow.

MARILYN ROBBINS
Marilyn wanted us to write something about her vibrant personality and how much we will all miss her next year, but we can't tell lies like that!!!

MAUREEN ROBERTSON
Don't look in the cafeteria for Maureen, she's at home having lunch with Roy!

STACY ROBERTSON
Sorry, she's not home, Stacy. Try the next number in the phone book. Stacy is a Peanuthead during the day and a strikeout king at night.

BRENDA ROBINSON
Don't ask her about her boyfriend — you're only encouraging her!!!

SARAH ROBINSON
Sometimes this S.C.I. sweetheart throws temper tantrums when things don't seem to go her way, but Sarah is always ahead of the game.

DAVE ROBSON
To raise money, Dave "Get A Job" Robson plans to write a book called, "How to Mooch and Survive!"

JOHN ROBSON
The New Year's Eve "Flasher" wants to be an astronaut but we all know he's already in outer space!

ROB RYAN
If you're anything like your brother, we look forward to seeing you next year again.

BOB SAUVE
"Mr. Puberty" is generally a popular guy, except when he does his skunk imitation, which is, shall we say, breath-taking.

JUDY SAYERS
A wild and crazy gal!

CLIFF SCOTT
Cliff is never found without his vicious bodyguard Tina.

BILL SETO
"KEGMAN" can massage girls' necks and get 80% averages simultaneously but we'll remember him for inventing his own language — "cup talk".

BILL SIMEONAKIS
If Bill ain't mouchin', he's found drawing incriminating caricatures.

TRACEY SINAL
Tracey is noted for saying, "I don't know why I'm here, I've got my 80%". Tracey is persistent and this will no doubt benefit her as she enters law school.

TESSIE SIOSON
Tessie's favorite passtime is picking up men down in Mexico while the rest of us freeze up here and go to school.

LINDA SMITH

There are those who watch things happen, those who make things happen, and those who wondered what happened.

LISA SMITH

Lisa likes to spend her Friday nights taking off to London with unknown people in a beat up old Mustang. "Yippee Skippy."

STEPHANIE TEAKLE

Steph can often be heard whining, "Why do I have to do everything?" If it wasn't for you Stephanie, who would do it?

PENNY THOMSON

Out with the old, in with the new. Penny has a new firebird (I mean boyfriend!) for every occasion and can usually be found at Pizza Hut!

MARIA TSAPRAILIS

Has Jeff met your dad yet? Are you going to advertise for your own harem too?

JOHANNA VAN DYK

This hyper blonde hasn't stopped smiling since gr. 9!

KARA WARNEZ

"No, I better not. My mom might not like it. Have you no couch?" More power to the TURBO machine!

BOB WAYBRANT

After the Brick is finished school, he is planning to open up a cement company.

ERIN WHITE

Our resident torch bearer — maybe someday he'll run "in" the Olympics, instead of to them.

CINDY WILKINSON

Cindy is always willing to participate in mid-afternoon discussions. Call for an appointment. She's capable of making up answers to all your problems.

SCOTT WRIGHT

Birdseed will be leaving our nest and continuing his education at Fanshawe next fall. He will be majoring in "Bird Watching".

CHERYL STEWART

Cheryl can always be found in Calhoons, (especially on Wing Nights and Tuesday Nights) and after it closes she brings the party to her house.

CHRIS STOREY

Chris left us to further her education at Lambton College. Best of luck in the future.

STEVE TRAIN

STEVE is our resident Yankee, and he is also a "very" devout baseball fan. Don't let Mr. Garrett catch you reading that sports section!!!

LEANNE TRASK

Leanne seems quiet at school, but when there's a party . . .!!! Hey, did Rich get the $7 yet?

PHIL VARGHESE

Black is beautiful, but Phil still swears that a Mennonite Spirit invaded his body when he failed his driver's license test.

JOEL WARD

He may not say much at school but look out for this nocturnal maniac on week-ends!!!

TAMMY WEARING

Tammy is the quiet type but we always wonder "What's Tammy wearing?!"

LYNETTE WELLINGTON

Bazooka snow sneoin' momma who has mastered the fine art of drinking 2 Litre Rockaberry Coolers! How's Bull? (P.B.B.'s Forever — Love all males.)

STEVE WILSON

Steve "you're late" Wilson will "try" anything to be cool. Remember the Halloween dance . . .?

RENE WORK

The "SCHLEP turned PREP", took Gr. 13 thinking it was a recreation sport, went to St. Donat, fell in love, had a great time, and still won't let us forget about it.

What's this you ask? The senior girls' basketball team having a party at Mo's house for winning OFSAA and feeling pretty good.

LET'S BOOM-DA EH FOR MARK SCHARENBROIK

March 24, 1988, is the day you will remember for the rest of your life. Mark Scharenbroik visited S.C.I.&T.S. (he's the one in our Grade nine orientational film, which we all remember so well) and gave us something to think about. His special motivational speech touched us all.

He spoke of first dates, love, relationships, and not to have "wish lists". We shouldn't wish we were someone else, rather just be who and what we are. Like Mark said, "You are one of a kind, unique", and should accept that.

He shared his experiences with us such as his wife's childbirths, young children, going out on dates, and school life. He told us to go the full 100% in life and to live life, not just exist. Mark talked about many things we could relate to and made us laugh as well as participate. He also reminded us to say thanks to teachers, parents, friends, etc.

Thank you Mark, here, have a quarter.

The Band Played On . . .

Move over Lawrence Welk, make room for the S.C.I. & T.S. Concert Band. On many occasions during the first semester, I have had the pleasure of hearing them perform and each time I left in awe (along with the rest of the audience) over the talent that was set before me. The band is under new leadership this year; acting as shepherd of the flock (the guy who stands in front waving his arms around) is Mr. Tim Hummell, under whose direction we hope to see many more exceptional performances as the years continue.

The band is not all instrumental, though. Sarah Burchmore gave us a taste of her talents as she soloed her way into our hearts. Theresa Phillips also taught us a thing or two when she whipped the mallets around the xylophone as the audience sat dazed and dazzled by the speed and accuracy at which she performed. John Pevac should be thanked for turning an embarrassing situation into one of which both the audience and the band were able to laugh about.

When moving the baby grand piano from point A to point B it came unglued at the seams and went to pieces on stage, much to the amusement of all. Carrying various parts of the beloved Heintzman under each arm, he graciously bowed to an audience of peers and locals that was by this time rolling in the aisles in hysteria and delirium. He then made a quick exit off stage bogged down by parts of a piano which at one time (a long time ago) had great legs.

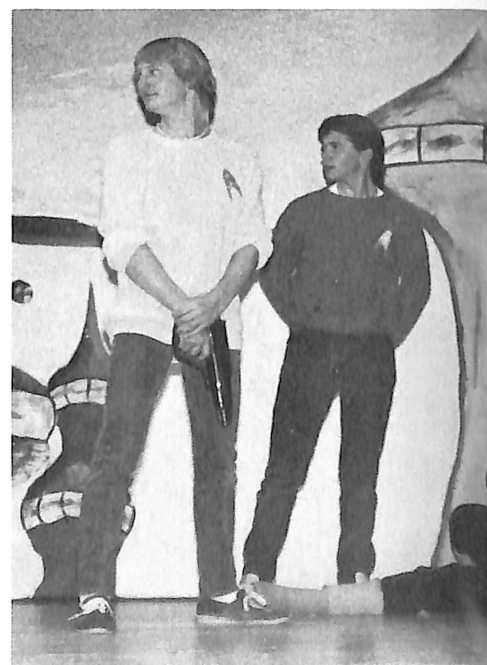

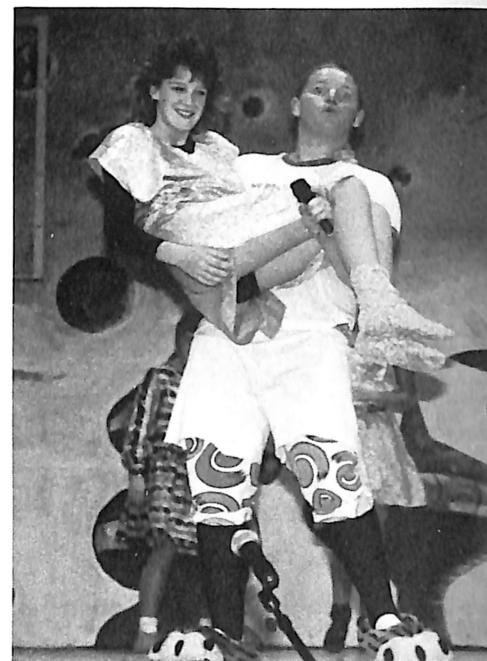

From what I hear, Mr. Brown, the trivia master himself, got a chuckle out of it as well, but let's hope that he's in such high spirits when it comes time to pay for a new baby grand piano.

The band performing at the Sarnia Eaton Centre at Christmas time. The French horn players shown are Jeff Anderson, Sarah Burchmore, Chitra Dath, Agnes Pascal, Krista Moffat and Mike McQueen.

Would the Church Lady approve of this Revue?

"Well, isn't that spe-e-e-cial!" Thank you for that commentary, Church Lady. You're absolutely right about that. SCITS Revue '88, "Then, Now and Forever", really was quite special.

The production included many delightful surprises for the audiences and even a few unexpected surprises for the participants, sometimes inspiring panic rather than delight. Such was the case when Chad Fairbairn, our resident man of 1000 voices, accidentally threw a gun off the stage in the direction of the band. It bounced off the cymbals before it punctured a hole in the drum. Fortunately, Mr. Hummel was quite good natured about the incident, which served to alleviate Chad before hysteria set in as he envisioned parting with his life savings to pay for a new drum.

Backstage occasionally tended to give rise to an unexpected moment, as well. Mr. Sandrin inadvertently caught a glimpse of Karin Langille in her bra as she attempted to make a quick, unseen costume change in the green room. (Reportedly, Mr. Sandrin hasn't been quite the same, ever since.)

Meanwhile, back on stage, a quintet of shameless gentlemen clad in tutus and leg warmers pranced across the stage in a true(?) Barishnikov style while Heather Brock and Noreen Edmonson played flute melodies. There's something irresistible about Steve Bicum wearing "STUD" undies and John Cruickshank in moose slippers. As for Bill Ross, it's good to see him with his underwear on the "inside" of his pants, again.

In this year's show, not very many things of any stature escaped a somewhat satirical bite. "Philly" Brown and Miss Gander still concede to being affiliated with this school despite their depictions. Ah well, maybe Mr. Brown has forgotten about, "I'm not Greek, I'm Scottish" by now. As for TV Evangelists, boy, did they get it good! Jimmy Swagart would be mortified. Sarah Stratton and Suu Marwood played the role of "Tim and Mammy Baker" with excellence, right down to Tammy's Tennessee twang and false eye lashes that had to be applied with band-aids. Steve Bicum was perfect as the sinfully sexy "Patrick Sways-His-Hips" as was Phil Varghese portraying "Orville Roberts". (With a real name like Oral, it's difficult to do a parody on it.) A highlight of this "Tower of Power Inspirational Happy Hour" skit was certainly Kanella Frangis as "Saturday Night Live's" Church Lady.

The "Back to the Future" skit also left us with a few memorable moments. A peek into the future revealed that Clearwater annexed Sarnia, Ottawa and Washington, D.C. in the year of our Lord Whitnall, 2000. How could we forget those words uttered by Kara Warnez. (You know, the ones that had her convinced her parents would drag her off the stage as soon as they heard them.) As Robin Lord informed Mike Lewis that women don't need men for much in the new age, Kara proudly announced, "Oh well, at least they're practicing safe sex."

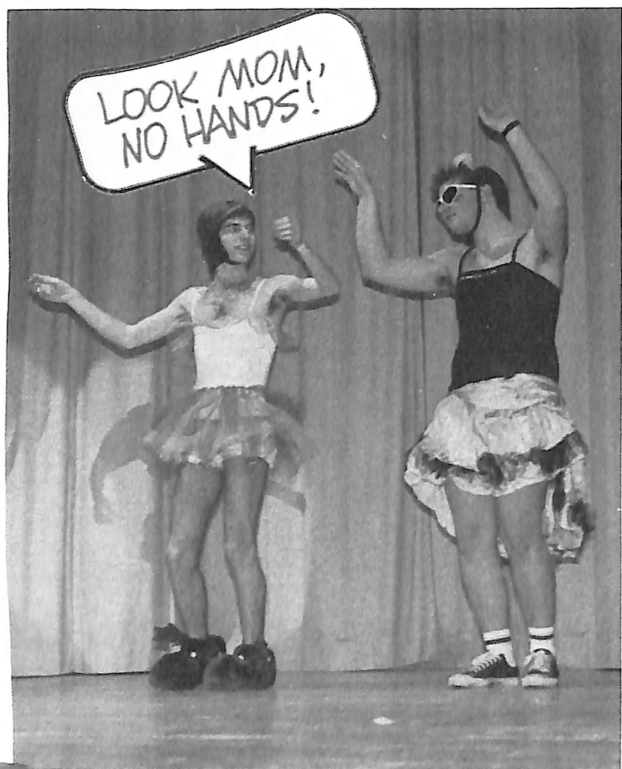

Above all else, Revue '88 was the year of the lip sync. "Star Trekkin" left us with the immortal words of "It's life Jim but not as we know it" on the tip of our tongues. But no one said, or should that be mouthed, those words as well as Pat Coggins, our own Mr. Spock complete with pointy, plastic ears. Trevor Johnston's expressive actions accompanying "It's worse than that, he's dead Jim, dead Jim, dead Jim, dead!" remained a favorite with many. Jimmy Bell had the whole stage stompin' and the crowd clapping when he lip-synched "Rockin Robin". That went the way of most skits. Whenever the plot became tricky, the guys in the sound booth hit the music and the cast on stage broke out in harmony. These performances ranged from the "B-alloons and Cassettes from Outer Space" family Skinimerinky Dinky Dooing their way off stage to Carrie Waybrant and Lisa Currah explaining why "You're the Reason our Kids are Ugly".

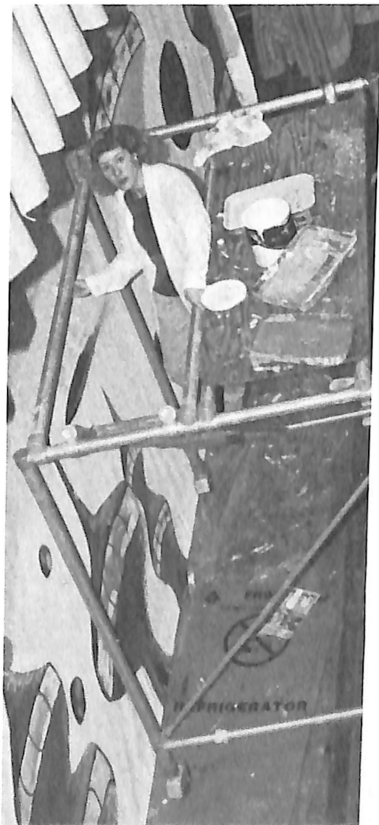

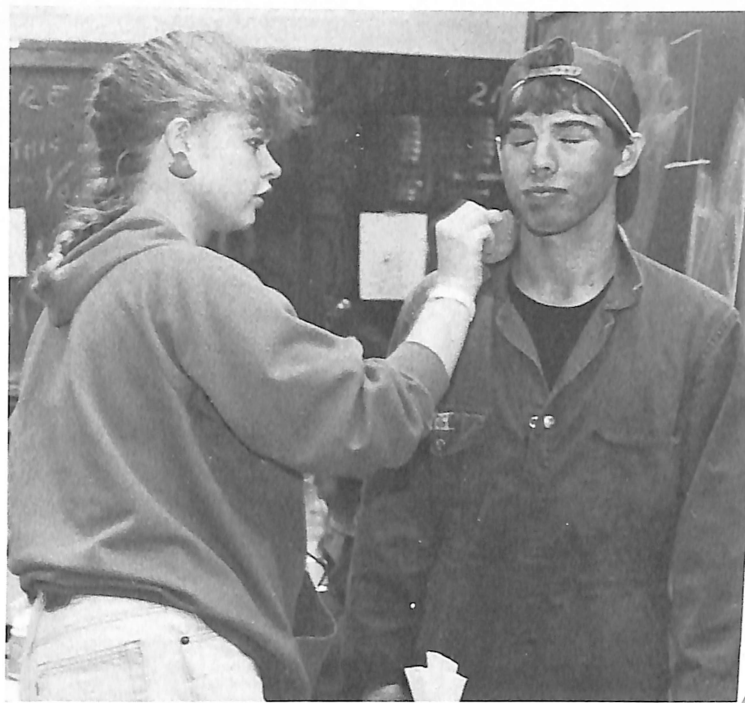

To complete our amateur extravaganza, those with real talent, as well as guts, treated the audience. Sarah Burchmore accompanied by Jenn Furlotte and Cherylynn Fox, Mike Murphy's crazy 50's melodies, the Louie Louie gang and Tanya Allen on the piano provided a variety of musical numbers to appeal to all tastes. The show ended on a high note with an impressive display of co-ordination by the "Dancing in the Street" dancers.

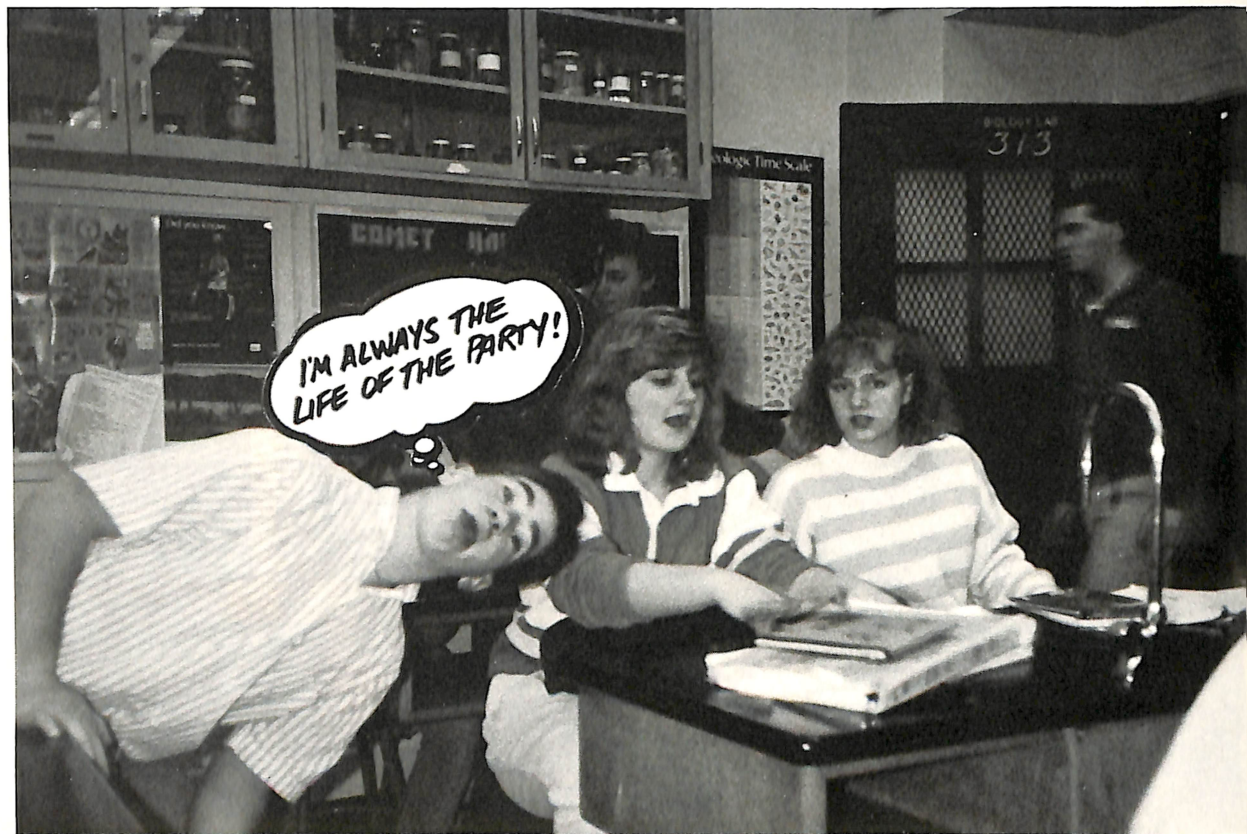

Well, Church Lady, we certainly had fun during this Revue. Who could have tempted us to be so naughty on a few occasions? "Now, who could it be? Who could it po-o-ossibly be? Maybe . . . SATIN!"

This year's AD ASTRA is dedicated to a very special person who contributes a great deal to life for adults and adolescents alike at S.C.I.&T.S.

To
Mr. John Scott

Guest Speaker

April 27, 1988 was a sobering experience for S.C.I.&T.S. Norbert "Uncle Ernie" Georget, a Saskatoon paramedic, spoke to the Grade 10, 11, 12, and 13's. He may have a whimsical nickname but not a whimsical job.

Norbert showed us slides of accidents of impaired drivers and their victims. The slides got a bit morbid and made some people look away, but we can't look away from drunk drivers.

Norbert engaged us in a group discussion and such statements as "for every one you save, you lose...ten" wasn't meant as scare tactics but just a very real part of life.

He gave us things to think about and sold bumper stickers which summed up his message: "IT'S OK NOT TO DRINK"

Thus Concludes
A Year Between The Covers

- the magnitude and direction of the resultant velocity.
6. An airplane is to maintain a velocity of 475 km/hr in a direction 45.0° north of east. If the wind velocity is 50.0 km/hr 45.0° south of east, what should be the magnitude and direction of the velocity of the airplane to offset the effect of the wind?
- GROUP B
Note: Problems 7 through 9 should be solved (a) graphically and (b) trigonometrically.
7. Determine the magnitude and direction of the resultant velocity of
- 75.0 m/s, 25.0° east of north, and 100.0 m/s, 25.0° east of south.
8. A boat is to cross a river on a course directed 20.0° upstream to a dock 815 m distance in 10.0 min. If the river flows at a speed of 3.0 km/hr, at what angle upstream must the boat be headed and what must be its speed relative to the moving water?
9. An airplane must fly at a ground speed of 425 km/hr in a direction of 10.0° east of south to be on course and on schedule. If the wind velocity is 25.0 km/hr 40.0° east of north, in what direction and at what speed relative to the air must the pilot fly?

ACCELERATION

Acceleration is a change in velocity. It can be positive or negative.

3.5 The Nature of Acceleration The gas pedal of a car is sometimes called the accelerator. When you drive a car along a level highway and increase the pressure on the accelerator, the speed of the car increases. The needle of the car's speedometer shows that for a certain amount of time the car's speed increases. We say that the car is accelerating. When you apply the brakes of the car that you are driving, the speed of the car decreases. The speedometer shows that the car's speed is decreasing, and we say that the car is decelerating.

Acceleration is the time rate of change of velocity. If a car goes from 0.0 km/hr to 60 km/hr in 10 s, its acceleration is 6.0 km/hr/s. The first car has an acceleration of 6.0 km/hr/s. The second car has an acceleration of 12.0 km/hr/s. The third car has an acceleration of 18.0 km/hr/s. The fourth car has an acceleration of 24.0 km/hr/s. The fifth car has an acceleration of 30.0 km/hr/s. The sixth car has an acceleration of 36.0 km/hr/s. The seventh car has an acceleration of 42.0 km/hr/s. The eighth car has an acceleration of 48.0 km/hr/s. The ninth car has an acceleration of 54.0 km/hr/s. The tenth car has an acceleration of 60.0 km/hr/s.

3.6 Solving Problems (1564-1642) The dimensions of acceleration should be carefully examined. Acceleration is the rate of change of the rate of displacement, or  $(\Delta d / \Delta t) / \Delta t$ . If  $\Delta d$  is in meters and  $\Delta t$  is in seconds, acceleration is in meters per second squared, or  $\text{m/s}^2$ .

VELOCITY AND ACCELERATION

Average acceleration is found by the relationship

$$a_{av} = \frac{v_f - v_i}{t_f - t_i}$$

where  $a_{av}$  is the average acceleration,  $v_i$  is the initial velocity at time  $t_i$ , and  $v_f$  is the final velocity at time  $t_f$ . This relationship may also be stated

$$a_{av} = \frac{\Delta v}{\Delta t}$$

where  $\Delta v$  is the change in velocity for time interval  $\Delta t$ . Figures 3-9 and 3-10 are velocity-time graphs for accelerated motion. In Figure 3-9 the velocity curve is a straight line. Hence the acceleration is a constant. This is an illustration of uniformly accelerated motion.

The motion illustrated in Figure 3-10 is an example of nonuniformly accelerated motion. The curve is not a straight line. The instantaneous speed or instantaneous velocity is always positive. That is, the velocity does not increase during all time intervals. For the interval between points A and B,  $\Delta t$  is 3.0 s and  $\Delta v$  is -2.0 m/s. Consequently

$$a_{av} = \frac{-2.0 \text{ m/s}}{3.0 \text{ s}} = -0.67 \text{ m/s}^2$$

This reduction in speed is called deceleration, or negative acceleration.

The dimensions of acceleration should be carefully examined. Acceleration is the rate of change of the rate of displacement, or  $(\Delta d / \Delta t) / \Delta t$ . If  $\Delta d$  is in meters and  $\Delta t$  is in seconds, acceleration is in meters per second squared, or  $\text{m/s}^2$ .
